

Who Should Control Monetary Policy?

Politicians or the Central Bank?

DON BRASH

Former Governor of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand (RBNZ) and Member of the New Zealand Parliament

During Dr. Brash's tenure as Governor, the RBNZ became the first central bank to embark on formal inflation targeting, and developed a new approach to banking supervision.

Wednesday

FEBRUARY 18, 2015

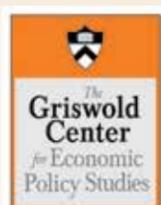

12:15 p.m. to 1:15 p.m. • Bowl 016, Robertson Hall

This event is restricted to Princeton University students, faculty, fellows, and invited guests.

Lunch will be served. Registration is required.

For more information and to register:

www.princeton.edu/jrc/events_archive/repository/Don%20Brash/

The event is co-sponsored by the Bendheim Center for Finance, the Griswold Center for Economic Policy Studies, the Julis-Rabinowitz Center for Public Policy and Finance, and the Woodrow Wilson School